Material Growth Of Point Loma

WHOLE PENINSULA
PROVES PERFECT SETTING
FOR BEAUTIFUL HOMES

The steady and healthy growth in Point Loma property values is most clearly and significantly shown in the following interesting article printed in the April number of the "Theosophical Path," a splendid monthly magazine published by Katherine Tingley at the International Theosophical Headquarters, Point Loma, California:

"Southern California, especially San Diego and Point Loma—are growing very rapidly. People from all over the world are coming to this favored spot to live, because we have not only an ideal winter climate, but also one of the most beautiful summer climates of any part of America. Even in the height of summer it is cool here at night, and one can sleep comfortably with a blanket. This is quite a contrast to the conditions obtaining on the east coast of the U. S. A. and in the interior."

DRUGGIST F. H. KRAFT
DISPOSES OF HIS INTEREST IN BRANCH STORE

With the very commendable idea of devoting his time and efforts to the great growth of his beach drug store, Fred H. Kraft has sold his interest in his pharmacy in the University avenue district to his partner, Clarence Knight, who was formerly connected with the drug store here as a registered pharmacist. Druggist Kraft will give his personal attention to his hosts of friends and patrons of his fully equipped drug store at the corner of Bacon street and Newport avenue, where he now has Pharmacist Gordon Vaughan as an able and courteous assistant. Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Kraft are residing in one of the new Daly stucco cottages on Cape May avenue.

UNSEASONAL STORM
PROVES GREAT BLESSING
TO THIS SECTION

The exceptional high wind and rain storm prevailing along the California coast for several days early this week caused considerable interference to highway traffic, yet proved a great blessing to the agricultural sections and served to increase San Diego's water supply by billions of gallons. With the exception of washouts here and there along the hillsides and creation of temporary lakes in the lowlands, the beach districts were not very materially damaged by the succession of unseasonal storms.

BIG WINDOW BROKEN AND RINK ROOF HIT

During the high winds early this week several pieces of tile coping were ripped from the roof of Ed. Kiekham's Mission Beach Roller Rink and a huge plate glass window of G. E. Beaman's concession in the Bathhouse building was demolished when the wind whirled a bench against it, destroying some of the concession stock.

LESTER NEAR LEADS
"THE BEACH NEWS" TEAM
IN POLO VICTORY

Last Tuesday night "The Beach News" polo team walloped the Old Town team by a score of 3 to 2 at Kiekham's Mission Beach Roller Skating Rink. It was a red hot game from start to finish, Lester Near leading the Ocean Beach bunch to victory by some very peppery playing, ably assisted by his team-mates, George Sturtz and George Northern. Next Tuesday evening the Thirtieth Destroyer Division team will play "The Beach News" team at Kiekham's M. B. Rink.

New Beach Industry "CACHE OF SWEETS" AND NEW CANDY FACTORY OPENS NEXT WEEK

A new confectionery, fountain and candy factory will open about April 15 in the building lately occupied by Froide's photography shop, next door to Faber's cash grocery, by James Miltenberger, who for twenty years has been operating similar shops in Oregon.

Besides the manufacturing of a full line of candies, the new shop will serve all the popular drinks and eats now in demand. Mr. Miltenberger says the small child with a penny will receive as cheerful and hearty a welcome as the grown-ups with a dollar to spend.

Charles Thomas, also a former Oregonian, Mrs. Miltenberger and a special local force will assist in dispensing cheer in the new establishment, which will be known as the "Cache of Sweets." A fine assortment of taffies, fudges, brittles and other toothsome dainties will be manufactured on the premises, and patrons are assured of prompt and courteous service.

DON'T BE TOO SURE

Once there was a little boy whose name was Johnny Ferral. He thought he was terribly abused because he had to do the dishes. One day he decided to run away and then they would be sorry they made him do girls' work.

He put some bread and cold meat in a large piece of cloth and tied it on a stick. When he reached the front gate a man with a can of ice cream asked him if this was where the Ferrals lived. He was so surprised that he couldn't say a word for a few minutes. But he got over it enough to say yes.

Johnny thought he would stay around for a while and see what would happen next. Soon a man came up with two large boxes of candy and turned in the Ferrals' gate. Next came the tailor with a pair of long pants; next the fruit man with two baskets of fruit; and last of all came a man with a bicycle just the color Johnny wanted.

Then Johnny remembered that today was his birthday and he was giving a party, so he decided he wouldn't run away after all.

POWER OF ORGANIZATION
FITTINGLY ILLUSTRATED

As Mr. B. C. Sutton, owner of the attractive cottage at 801 Whiting court, was paying his dues to the Chamber of Commerce, he told the following story: A stranger in Kentucky stopped one day to watch a little darkey who was very proficient with the whip. Seeing himself observed, the little fellow exerted his utmost skill. A blade of grass was snapped in two in the exact center. A certain leaf was whipped from a tree. A fly was brushed from the ear of a passing horse with not so much as a blink from old Dobbin.

Pointing to a large black ball which hung from the limb of a nearby tree, the stranger asked, "Why don't you knock that off?" The picanniny smiled knowingly as he answered, "Not even Douglass Fairbanks himself would darst so much as bodder dat dere, mistuh. Why, dem bees' organized."

POWER OF ORGANIZATION
In organization there is power. Mission Beach is desperately in need of certain improvements. The most immediate, as every resident and property owner knows, are: (1) to get a seawall; (2) in the meantime, to make our ocean front a delight and not an eyesore; (3) to repair the walks leading to the ocean front; (4) to prevent outside connection with our sewer system for which we are paying and which seems to be inadequate for our own use; (5) to get streets lights; and (6) to persuade the city council to rescind the drastic law which prevents parking on our main highway, thereby inconveniencing our visitors and taking business away from our merchants and our beach.

FUTURE SEAWALL MEETING
The seawall question is in the hands of the city for the present. After a study of the plans submitted to them, many of which came from our own property owners and those directly interested, City Manager Rhodes and City Engineer Jorgensen will meet with us to discuss these plans. Notices of this meeting will be sent out and announcements will be posted in public places so everyone will have a chance to attend.

DONATIONS REQUESTED
To aid in this work the chamber will ask subscriptions from property owners and all those interested in the development of one of Southern California's coming resorts and one of San Diego's chief drawing cards. Any donation, however small, will be sincerely appreciated by the chamber and by those giving their time and money to this work of improvement.

MISSION BEACH SOCIAL ITEMS

"PAY-UP-WEEK" BLESSING TO ALL

STRIKING SLOGAN FOR CIVIC CAMPAIGN FROM APRIL 12 TO APRIL 17

"I pay you—you pay him—and he'll pay me!" is the striking slogan adopted for the "Pay Up Week" campaign to be put into effect throughout San Diego county from Monday, April 12 to Saturday, April 17, inclusive.

It is understood that the Credit Men's association and the Better Business bureau have been asked to co-operate with the churches, schools, clubs and newspapers in putting over the "Pay Up Week" campaign. It's a great idea, if everybody lives strictly up to the principle of the slogan, which is worth repeating in bold type:

"I pay you—you pay him—and he'll pay me!"

Just think it over. Tell the other fellow about it. And all act together accordingly. Won't it be great—with all the simoleons circulating around and everybody counting the coin of the realm! Let's go, now!

Pay Up Week, April 12 to 17.

Each individual will appreciate the idea in proportion to the amount of effort expended to make it a success.

Attention of radio fans is called to the announcement by Carl Schroder of his remedy for this evil. It is called Schroder's Interference Resister and can be readily attached to any make of radio at very small cost, says Mr. Schroder, the inventor of this new device for preventing radio troubles.

Mission Beach School Notes

Written for "The Beach News" By Pupils Under Direction of Miss Sarellen Morgan
By Ben McMicken, 6B

School was dismissed at 10 o'clock Monday because of the storm. Miss Weller, the principal, was unable to get to school, as neither cars nor buses were running. There were thirty children present.

David and Betty Cook have moved into the Point Loma district. Alpha and Lois Stephens have returned to Normal Heights school.

Two new children were enrolled Tuesday—Constance Nerwich, 6A, from Central school, and Fred Nichols, from Long Beach.

The grounds are so wet that the children are obliged to play indoors. We hope to see clear weather soon.

In Miss Morgan's room we keep a chart of the rainfall. We have four columns on it. The first is the least rainfall recorded. The second is the most rainfall recorded. The third is the average annual rainfall, and the fourth is this year's rainfall since August. The weather has kept us busy enlarging the fourth column. It is far above average now.

NEW NELSON COTTAGE

A permit has been issued to W. E. Nelson for the construction of a cottage at 4663 Coronado avenue, at a cost of $4000.

Laughter And Love In "The Tempest"

RAJA-YOGA PLAYERS
FIXED FOR FINE PRODUCTION
AT GREEK THEATRE

Laughter and love—are they realities of life, to be enjoyed and believed in by all? Much living—of a kind—much disillusionment, disappointment, taxes, blue laws and what not, have bred skepticism in us. But several thousand skeptics are going to be convinced of the reality of these delights on the 16th and 17th of this month, when Katherine Tingley presents that lovely, laughing fairy masque, "The Tempest," of Shakespeare—such at least is the opinion volunteered by prominent guests who have been permitted a glimpse of the preparations which are keeping all departments at the Theosophical headquarters busy. Several who have heard her plans for the setting, costuming and general direction of this play declare that in their opinion it will be a greater revelation of the spectacular beauty and unalloyed joy of a Shakespearean production than any of the wonders yet witnessed in her incomparable open-air theatre at Point Loma.

Mme. Tingley is building up a huge cast comprising well-trained, veteran actors of her college and university, some of whom have taken leading roles in former productions, all the way down to that immortal host of serene, unspoiled elfin folk, straight from fairyland—many of them really debutantes upon the stage as well as among the doings of earthly folk. It is generally conceded that they cannot be equalled anywhere. In an unrivalled and spectacular setting, we are told, the courtly, kind old Gonzalo, scheming Sebastian and his fellows, Trinculo and the tipsy jester, "King Stephano," whose throne, like his gait, assuredly totters, and the monster Caliban will use their worldly plottings and delicious buffoonery as a telling foil to the eerie beauty of Prospero's and Ariel's fairy host and wonder-working.

Yes, it is more than rumored that the Raja-Yoga Players have set themselves to "convince the unconvinced" that laughter and love are a necessary part of life for all, and taken in the form of one of Katherine Tingley's Shakespearean productions, are a more effective tonic than psychotherapy or vitamins A, B or C.

For reservations call at the Theosophical Bookstore, 1269 Fourth street, between 9:30 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. (Tel. Main 6472). If no answer, call Bayview 0350. Tickets will also be on sale after April 12 at Thearle Music company, 640 Broadway.

DECISION CONCERNS
INCREASED COMPENSATION FOR INJURED EMPLOYEES

In the case of General Accident, Fire and Life Assurance Corporation vs. Industrial Accident Commission, a decision of importance to employees has just been handed down by the Second district court of appeal—Judge Frederick W. Houser writing the opinion—in which it is held in substance that whenever within the statutory period a condition of permanent disability arising from an injury to an employee is established, the employee becomes entitled to increased compensation, notwithstanding the fact that prior thereto such employee has been fully compensated as for a temporary injury.

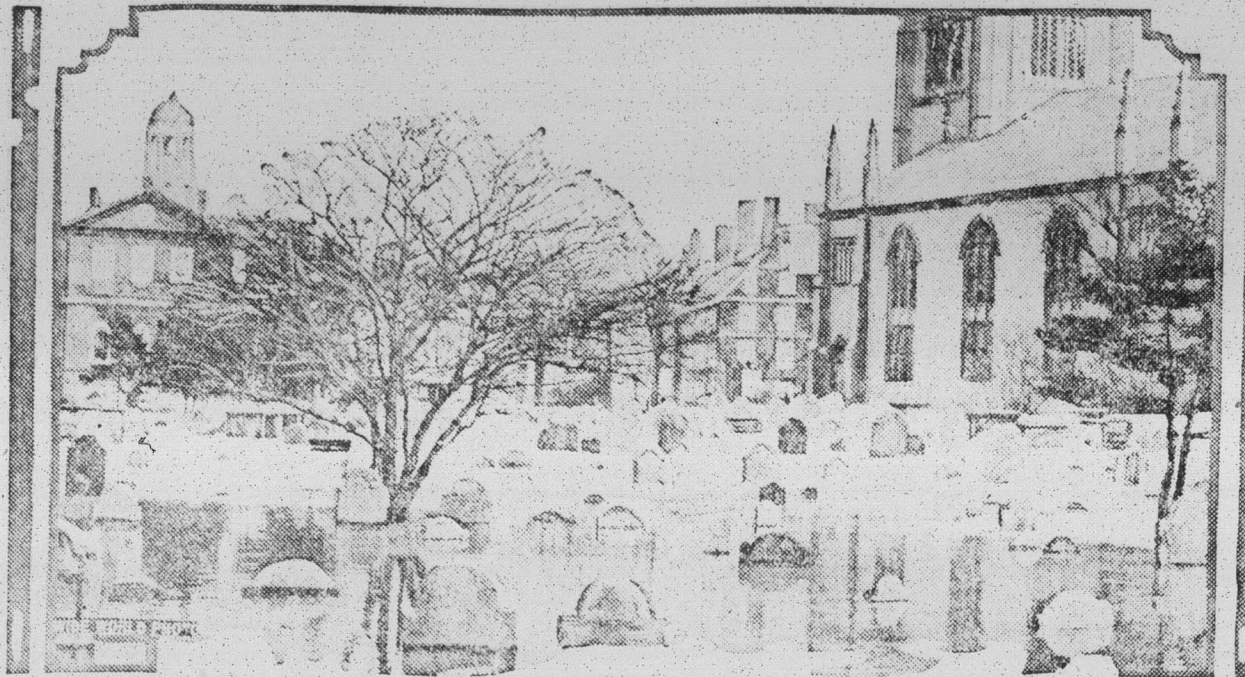

The decision is far-reaching in its effect, as it permits of a full and complete readjustment of compensation to employees whose claims for injuries received in the course of their employment have heretofore been passed upon by the industrial accident commission, and which heretofore have been considered as closed to further inquiry.

RADIO

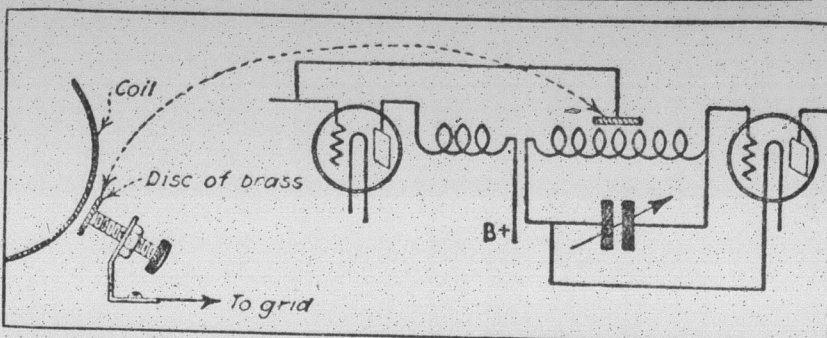

Fig. 3—Showing the Scheme Devised by Glenn Browning for Neutralizing a Radio Frequency Receiver.

By L. W. HATRY

In New York-Herald Tribune.

Many home radio engineers, using the term engineer with extreme generality, design excellent little sets. That is, these home designers subtract ideas out of various articles they have read and screw them together to make a component whole including the things that they want. The men that do this sort of thing know a little of the technical and mysterious end of radio-electrics; but, much more important, they understand a deal of the practical application of things. This is written for these men. It is hoped that it will help somewhat in their rectifying a thing often done haphazardly.

First, at the risk of being uninteresting, let us go into the theory of the Hazeltine or any neutralizing scheme. The theory fits most of them, but the specific application discussed will be Hazeltine's.

The Neutralizing Arrangement.

There is a feed-back from plate to grid in a radio-frequency tube that results in the oscillation so annoying without some annulling or neutralizing scheme. The feed-back may be reduced by sacrifice of effectiveness, by introduction of losses or by a neutralizing, so-called, arrangement. The neutralizing idea works on what is known as the bridge principle. Notice the diagram in Fig. 1. The path from input to B plus, going backward for the moment, is a double one. The current can either go by the capacity of C and the inductance of L₁, or by the capacity of GP and the inductance of L₂. Now, if the current divided equally in both of those branches and reversed itself in one branch to result in opposition, the result at B plus would be nothing, assuming that we control the paths CL₁ and GPL₂, so that they are equal, and thus pass equal but opposing forces. That being the case it becomes apparent that if L₁ and L₂ are equal the condenser C must have the same capacity as between GP. That sounds all right, but the capacity from G to P is very small, and it is quite a trick to provide so small a capacity at C without having the wires running from L and G overdo the job.

Now, the exact arrangement of Fig. 1 is being used at present in many sets employing a single stage of radio frequency amplification. The detector coupler primary L is a coil of double winding, two wires in parallel, or a single winding tapped in the center, as L indicates. Yet practical set conditions often make it impossible to put the proper capacity at C, so that the process of neutralizing is practically impossible successfully. This trouble is simple to rectify. If we express the relation mentioned in the foregoing paragraph in a mathematical formula, it will be:

$\frac{1}{2}LC = \frac{1}{2}LGP$ —permitting GP to represent capacity between grid and plate. It is apparent immediately that if any one member of the equation is reduced an increase of its partner will balance things again. If L is reduced, then C must be increased, or vice versa. That this is true offers a solution to the neutralizing trouble. It is general practice to use a small midjet variable condenser whose capacity is .00003 mfd. or greater generally. Under the circumstances $\frac{1}{2}L$ could just as well become $\frac{1}{4}L$ on the C side of the equation. In this case L to C would be a half of L to P in turns, since the turns ratio make the voltage present at C. Speaking concretely, where L would ordinarily be a total of 36 turns tapped in the center, it should be instead 27 turns tapped to put 18 turns between P and B plus and 9 turns on the neutralizing side to the condenser C.

The Neutralizing Current.

The method of obtaining the necessary neutralizing current, as used in the neutrodyne, is well known. It is shown schematically in Fig. 2. What the foregoing should have imparted in part is that the balancing or neutralizing side of the bridge formed did not need so much to be actually part of the primary inductance L as merely a control circuit allowing the passage of the correct opposing current to the grid of the tube to be neutralized. So, if we arrange such a control circuit from a proper source of opposing current we can effect the same thing. This was done in the commercial neutrodyne by tapping off the inductance L₁, which was secondary to L₂, for the voltages or currents in a secondary circuit are generally completely out of phase with those in the primary. The primary L was almost always stuck at the filament end of L₁, as Fig. 2 indicates, so that the voltage transfer from L to L₁ at the lower portions would be made with small loss. Thus the tap at L₁ generally included the same number of turns as were present in L, giving an oppositional current whose voltage was practically equal to that put on the plate by L. Control of the neutralizing capacity C would then put the exact neutralizing voltage on G. Since L and L₁ were equal the condenser C had to have the same capacity as that between grid and plate—a very hard condition to meet, as was said—in the home-made, and in many cases, the factory-made set.

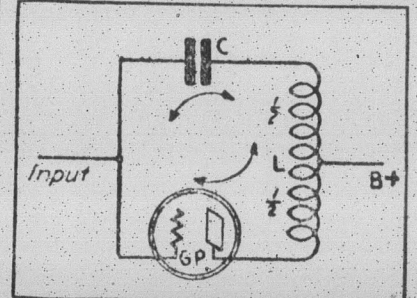

Fig. 2—Method of Obtaining Necessary Neutralizing Current.

The remedy is again as before. Have a small neutralizing inductance and a large neutralizing capacity, using the midjet variable condenser. Tap off the secondary of the neutrodyne L₁ to include the number of turns to the filament equal to about one-half of L, the primary. Then the neutralizing condenser is safely the usual midjet, but not very satisfactorily the so-called neutrodyne of the sliding tube type.

To Obviate the Troubles.

Fig. 3 illustrates the simply obvious scheme devised by Glenn Browning of Browning-Drake fame, which obviates the troubles we have just mentioned. The little disk of metal coming near to the inductance coil makes of itself and the coil a neutralizing capacity and tap in a unique fashion. Of course, if it is not placed properly in relation to the voltage, at which it meets the secondary, it is possible to overneutralize and thus fail.

Sets employing a neutralized stage of radio frequency—regenerative detector and whatever necessary audio—are easy to neutralize by means of a simple procedure. Starting off with the neutralizing capacity at its maximum, adjust the tickler for oscillation with the two-tuned circuits in tune. It probably will be found that the tickler rotates through a greater arc than the proper 90 degrees for the steady oscillating state. This signifies that the first tube is oscillating as well, and it should not. Make a slight adjustment of the neutralizing condenser. See if the result is a necessary greater increase of the tickler. Continue this until, not having changed the tuning, the adjustment of the tickler arrives at its greatest proportion of nonoscillating to oscillating portion of the arc of its swing. In other words, until it is necessary to give the greatest amount of tickler to start oscillation. When this condition has been reached the first tube is probably not oscillating and the behavior of oscillation and regeneration will be less erratic and more regular. This is a method of neutralizing that may be done any time of day or night, independent of both a strong signal or a buzzer and battery.

Aerials Safely Placed Will Save Much Trouble

Amateur electricians hanging aerials for radio sets often make some gross error or oversight with the result that they put themselves and their property in grave danger. In the past few months several serious accidents have occurred in different parts of New England and with the object of overcoming this and at the same time protecting their own installation, the principal electric light company of Worcester, Mass., has issued a notice that its officials will inspect all such wires free of charge, upon request of the owner. The radio owners of that city were quick to avail themselves of the opportunity and a number of antennae were found that were suspended over or near the heavily charged electric wires of the company, and in the event of falling would have been the cause of death or of serious injury and damage to the property.

A HORSE OF ANOTHER COLOR

The president of a northwest bank, at a social gathering recently, said:
"The city ought to run the street car system. It could save taxes now paid by the private company, use equipment of the city now maintained at the expense of the taxpayers, and thus give the public cheaper rides."

A lumberman, who was one of the heaviest taxpayers in the room, finally said:

"I have always thought it would be a great thing for the city or the state to run a bank. It's got so now that private banks charge 25 cents when an account falls below $100.
They make a charge to good customers for cashing certain checks, and on top of it all, they charge a high rate of interest to borrowers. The city, the county or the state could operate a bank in buildings already furnished by the taxpayers, eliminate the taxes now paid by banks and thus save the public large amounts of interest and special charges now assessed by banks against depositors and borrowers."

This was a horse of another color.
The banker in question immediately attempted to show why the city could not operate a bank as well as a street car system, but his audience had the laugh on him.

The foregoing incident was an actual occurrence and illustrates how, nine times out of ten, the man who wants public ownership for the other fellow's industry holds up his hands in horror if it is proposed to apply the same treatment to his own business. Public ownership does not square up with our form of government.

It makes no difference whether public ownership is applied to printing, street railways, electric companies, insurance, banking, farming, or any other activity, the principle is the same—it limits the opportunity of the individual, curtails his liberties and thereby abrogates the rights guaranteed by our constitution.

ANNUAL MEETING AND ELECTION OF OFFICERS FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The First Baptist church held its annual meeting on Wednesday evening of this week at 6 o'clock. A good number of the members partook of an enjoyable supper, prepared by the ladies of the church.

After supper, reports were given by all departments. The reports showed a very marked development, both in attendance and in the financial support of the local work and missionary effort. During the year the first mortgage of $4800 was paid, the convention and association assisting the church in this effort. Thirty-one new members have been received during the year.

The election of officers for the new fiscal year, beginning May 1, resulted as follows: Trustees, A. Hinrich, Y. N. Adams, Walter Clark, Mrs. Hendrix, Mrs. Grace Randall; deacons, Gordon Vaughn, Wm. A. Woodworth, J. W. Rankin; deaconesses, Mrs. Annie B. Mulville, Mrs. J. Clark, Mrs. E. Woodworth; church clerk, Mrs. C. W. Varney; treasurer, Y. N. Adams; benevolent fund treasurer, Mrs. Stella Harrison; Bible school superintendent, Wm. A. Woodworth; assistant, Mr. Hendrix; superintendent Junior B. Y. P. U., Mrs. I. Smith; assistant, Mrs. G. Vaughn; president Young People's society, Ruth Varney; vice-president, Dorothy Dunn; choir leader, Mrs. W. S. Dunn; organist, Mrs. W. Feigley; assistant, Mrs. G. Vaughn.

EASTER PAGEANT

Despite the heavy rains on Sunday night, the main auditorium of the Baptist church was filled. The program was carried out as planned. The children and young people showed careful training. The pageant, "The Feast of Light," brought a very fine lesson of the wonderful progress of the cause of Christ since the time of His death and resurrection. Mrs. C. King was the reader and she was assisted by about sixty children and young people.

Cora Jane Williams gave a very fine reading, "In the Garden."

MOST WELCOME ARRIVALS

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Earle and family arrived from Glendale, Calif., today to make their home at 4944 Narragansett avenue. "The Beach News" extends a hearty welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Earle and wishes them every success in their enterprise.

AMAZONIAN WEIGHT TOSSER

Southern California's woman weight champion, Miss Lillian Copeland, is already on her way to world's records, according to members of the university coaching staff who have aided Miss Copeland in her work. The girl star a week ago established new national marks in the shot and dischs while competing for the Pasadena Athletic and Country club. She tossed the eight-pound shot thirty-five feet seven and three-eighths inches, bettering her own mark of thirty-two feet ten and one-half inches. Her own national discus mark was then stretched to ninety-four feet eight inches, seven feet five inches better than the former record.

Foolish Parents

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

I HAVE no doubt that if I had ever had a son I should have been as foolish a parent as any whom I have known. Nancy says she is sure of it. I can understand how it happens that fathers and mothers give their children what they cry for because it is hard for me to deny a young person, not my child, anything it wants that it is possible for me to give.

Sheldon senior has as much money as he needs and almost as much as he wants, so that it is no sacrifice for him to gratify the desires of his son who has just entered college. When the boy was pledged to the fraternity that Sheldon had himself belonged to when he was in college, the older man was so pleased that he gave the boy a sporty-looking roadster to carry him to classes.

"I've seldom known an automobile to be either a moral or an intellectual advantage to a boy in college," I said to Sheldon.

"I know it's not good for the boy to have the car," he replied, "but I just cannot bring myself to deny him anything I can afford to give him, if it brings him pleasure."

Sheldon is a successful man; he holds a position of prominence and trust in the community in which he lives, but he has gotten where he is through hard work and sacrifice, and the doing without many things which would have given him pleasure. He does not want his son to reach success by the same methods as he has done. He wants him, in fact, to have none of the benefits which come from doing without things. Foolish parent!

McCready has worked for everything he has. He went no farther in school than the eighth grade, and he does not understand why his son should want more knowledge of books than he has had.

If he wants an education, let him work for it then," he says. "He'll appreciate it more if he knows how much it costs."

So, though McCready is quite able to send his son to college, he is unwilling to give the boy any help. Young McCready is fighting his own educational battles. He spends considerable time washing dishes and waiting on tables and raking leaves from lawns which might be employed in something far more useful and educative. He doesn't mind the work, excepting that when he has learned his lessons and earned his living he has no time for social pleasure, no time to play, no time for general reading. His foolish father is unnecessarily depriving him of a good part of a college education.

It is a serious matter being a parent. It requires more judgment and self-restraint than I should myself, perhaps, have had. The most foolish as I see them are those who make their children weak and selfish by allowing them no sacrifices and giving them no responsibilities, and those who rob their children of many of the pleasures of youth by giving them no help and no sympathy.

A Thousand Welcomes Await Sheer Frocks

A thousand welcomes—indeed, many thousand welcomes—await those dainty frocks of thin silk or other sheer fabrics, for summer afternoon, that are now passing in review in the shops. They are cheerful as to color, endlessly varied and cool as anything can be. Added to this is the important fact that they are inexpensive. Here is an example of the georgette frock—having a two-piece effect; the skirt is full at the front and narrow and is used for its decoration. It is very pretty in any of the season's fashionable colors and is typical of the season's modes.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT
By F. A. WALKER

THE CAPABLE MIND

MEN and women with penetrating judgment go about the filling of their minds with cool deliberation, separating the grain from the chaff, and using only the precious kernel.

If students of art or literature, sincere in their desire to advance and achieve, they use good sense without vanity in packing their memory with things of use which can be turned to profitable account when they sit at their desks, to begin their life-work.

If in the trades, prompted by a wish to succeed, they are none the less cautious in the appropriation of ideas and methods which will prove helpful and speed them on the way of accomplishment.

The capable mind, controlled by calm judgment, is ever the master in the manifold vocations in which humans are engaged in the stern contest for competence and comfortable existence.

On the other hand, those persons deficient of judgment and mind, inclined to "catch as catch can," store their brains with veritable trash, and keep laboriously at their wearisome and futile task until they realize to their dismay that there is no longer room in their thoughts for things of real worth.

Instead of burning the midnight oil sitting at the feet of Wisdom, they have wasted their time and vigor in pursuit of frivolity and ignorance.

Their brains are as empty of sap as an autumn leaf.

A little while ago they were fellow parts of the world, humorous, strong, supple and living a life of thoughtfulness, given to flashy dress, moving with a rakish abandon among their chosen associates, forgetting in their vanity the emptiness of their foolish minds and the futility of making a tawdry show.

And there is another side to this, for now and then a sudden jolt wakes them up, and they become their own best critics!

But repentance comes too late. Uneducated, frayed out in nerve and body and incapable of making another effort to redeem themselves, they gradually lose their remaining self-respect, turn their backs on Hope and drift till the end of their days among the failures.

AN ABBREVIATED STORY

THE GREAT SECRET

IT WAS raining. It had been raining, and it looked as though it would keep on raining. Conklin Waterman buttoned his coat tighter about him, as, jostled by the dense throng, he continued his dissertation.

"Yes sir!" he cried, "the reason why this is the greatest I'll country in the world is because everybody's absolutely free and equal and on the same social plane, and one man's as good as the next and he knows it, and so does the next."

The rain grew a trifle thicker and much colder. Conklin Waterman went on: "The great secret of it is, there's no social caste in this country. We value our neighbors for their moral worth; and who their grandfathers were, is a mere bag of shells. Offer the average citizen a title, and he'll kick you from here to hereafter for insulting him. That's the great secret."

A loud assenting murmur went up from the crowd. And, while we are on the subject of the crowd, let us idly learn why it is assembled and for what purpose it waits so patiently in all this disagreeable weather.

"It is waiting to cheer the king of Spain's brother-in-law as he whizzes past in his automobile."

A FADED CHRIST

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

DO YOU like to think of your dead as dead? What of your Christ, who was crucified? Yet many a Christian bows his head And worships a Christ that long has died. The Christ they see when they upward look Is a Christ they saw in a picture book.

Their Christ is a Christ of Galilee, A Christ of an ancient long ago; His robe they know and his staff they see, But they only think that they see and know, For always backward their look is cast To an ancient Christ of an ancient past.

And if their Savior has not sufficed In some hour of sorrow, some night of care, 'Tis because they prayed to a faded Christ Far back in an ancient land some where, Because they never did understand That He sitteth today at God's right hand.

COMMON GOOD THINGS

IT IS the everyday foods which we like served differently and with variety.

Vegetable Chowder.

Take thin slices of fat salt pork, cut into dice and fry out. Cover half a dozen sliced potatoes with boiling water and cook until nearly done, salting well, then add the pork and one can of corn, the water in which the potatoes were cooked and enough milk to make the desired consistency. Serve hot with crackers.

Carrot Marmalade.

Scrape and slice thin one pound of carrots, cook until tender, drain well and run them through the meat chopper. Set in a cool place over night. To three cupsful of carrots add the juice and grated rind of two lemons, four cupsful of sugar, two dozen blanched almonds cut into shreds. Let stand until the sugar is dissolved. Stir well and simmer slowly until the mixture is smooth and thick. Add as little water as possible. Before putting into glasses, add a few drops of almond flavoring. A mixture of orange and lemon may be used, adding a different flavor to the marmalade.

Ginger Cream.

Make a custard of the yolks of four eggs and the whites of two, four tablespoonfuls of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of preserved ginger sirup, and one pint of milk. Just before the custard is done, add a teaspoonful of gelatin and let it completely dissolve. Turn into molds, sprinkle each mold with preserved ginger. Serve with cream.

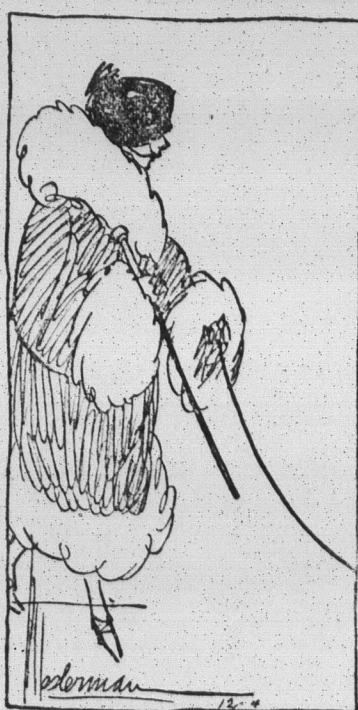

Oysters à la Newburgh.

Take three dozen oysters and liquor (about one and one-half cupsful), put into a saucepan, add one and one-half cupsful of salt and one-half cupful of water, and simmer for five minutes. Place in the top of a double boiler and add a speck of cayenne, one tablespoonful of orange juice and cook five minutes. Now add one-half cupful of cream, one-fourth cupful of milk, and cook five minutes longer. Meanwhile beat the yolks of two eggs with one tablespoonful of cream and one tablespoonful of lemon juice. Add to the oyster mixture, stirring constantly. Serve hot on buttered toast.

Community Building

City Lighting Matter of First Importance

An ornamental street-lighting system that affords adequate illumination at night, and also is inconspicuous in the daytime, harmonizing closely with the general scheme of architecture in the various parts of the city, is a source of great municipal pride. A city may have many beautiful thoroughfares, but their beauty is not apparent at night unless they are properly illuminated.

Proper lighting implies that the intensity of illumination should be varied to meet the requirements of the different sections of the city. Streets and avenues in the business districts where the traffic is heavier, for instance, require more light than those in the residential districts. Just the right amount of illumination is as necessary for effective street lighting as is the right method of illumination.

The installation of a good lighting system is something that demands considerable thought and planning. Not alone the street-lighting system, but also the ornamental posts, the kind and shape of glassware, and the proper placing of the posts must be given careful study.

There are many streets and drive-ways which are beautifully lighted at night but which lose all of their pleasing appearance by day. This may be explained by studying the lamp posts. It will be found that the posts installed are huge and clumsy, poorly located, and do not harmonize at all with their surroundings. The posts, in fact, have marred the entire aspect of the street by day.

Vitality and Beauty in Buildings of Brick

Since the day when the Assyrians were in their glory the inventive genius of man has wrought great improvements in brick. Nowadays it is turned out of the kiln in nearly every color and shade, in every degree of coarseness and fineness. It dams a river, it paves a street, it forms the wall of a factory; it adorns the inside as well as the outside of a home.

There was once a time when the mortar joints were regarded as an unwelcome necessity, but that time is past. Modern art has shown that mortar can be made a valuable ally in attaining the ultimate object—beauty. With their units of many colors, the architect and the clever brick worker create a surface which has the look of a skillfully woven fabric, thus the bonding together of brick permits varied effects in what the architects call "texture." Brick has such a quality of humanity as clings to no other substance that goes into the making of a house.

There is always the knowledge that here is the work of human hands—that every piece was made by man and put into place by man. The effect, produced by man's harmonious arrangement of his many units, is one of lasting vitality.

It may be taken for granted that many a home builder has passed brick by because of mistaken ideas about its cost. In these days there is no reason for any man who is planning to build to yearn in vain for a home of brick; he may have it if he wants it.—Detroit Free Press.

Home-Owner's Value

The loss of one potential home owner eventually means the loss of incalculable wealth to the community.

This was the opinion of Howard W. Elmore, vice president of the Chicago real estate board and now chairman of the committee of administration of the sixth annual "Own Your Home" exposition.

"When a community falls down on the job of securing even one family as permanent residents, it not only loses the sale of a house and lot, but it loses the 'upkeep' on that family for a long period of years," he said.

"One family may have many children and these children are likely to marry and settle in the same community. When one prospective home owner is lost, the purchasing power of many people is lost."

Ideals in the Home

The home is more than a mere shelter; it embodies all the finer things of life. It develops character, culture, thrift and happiness and is the foundation of society. Every one has, at least in a faint degree, some conception of and appreciation for the ideals that are typified in a home. Love, companionship, stability and right living are synonymous with the true home. These characteristics of the home are more highly developed through the fundamental personal pride and interest that grow out of ownership. From a social standpoint, therefore, home ownership has many advantages for both the individual and society.

Alabastine is easy to mix and apply, lasting in its results, and absolutely sanitary.

Like this man, thousands of people are hard to constipation only when it is too late.

"I'll tell you why they wouldn't insure you—"

"You allowed constipation to become chronic—until finally it resulted in organic disease."

"People don't realize how insidious constipation is. Its first effects are hardly more than annoyances—headaches, loss of appetite, sleeplessness and the like. But in time, as the body is subjected to continued intestinal poisoning, it may lead to high blood pressure, rheumatism, diabetes or even Bright's disease."

"Stop constipation if you wish to live long. Take a little Nujol every day—that will keep you regular."

Nujol relieves constipation in Nature's way

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is safe, gentle and natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin to enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when elimination is normal and regular.

TWEED CAPE-COAT IS POPULAR; MATCHING OF SCARF AND HAT

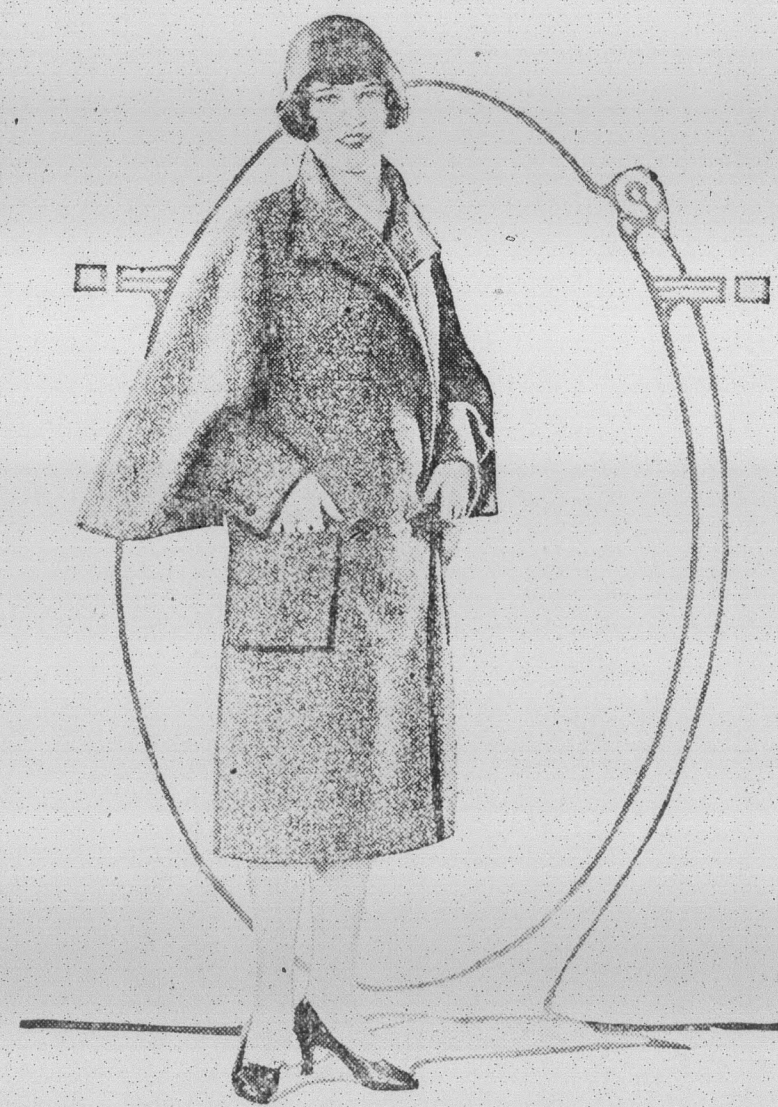

HAS the new coat you are visioning for spring a cape or at least a capelet effect? If not, why not? For 'tis to ignore a style decree to appear capless this season.

Having decided that for daytime wear in country or about town the cape-coat's the thing, what question is next in order? Material! A word of five letters gives immediate answer—tweed! For further suggestions as to an ultra-smart springtime utility coat study the model pictured herewith. It's the very latest, in every detail.

Handsome colorings inject a note of enthusiastic interest not only in the season's tweeds but in woolen fabrics in general. Swagger tweeds which flaunt bold checks and stripes. Contrasting these are tweeds in lovely "With a scarf to match, if you please," says milady to her favorite milliner. One has but to look through spring millinery collections to appreciate how enthusiastically creators of the hat-beautiful are responding to this call of the mode. More and more women of fashion look to their milliners to supply scarfs and for that matter other accessories related in coloring and motif to the chapeau. Which is just as it should be. May the vogue increase in favor throughout the length and breadth of the realm of fashion! Indeed, indications trend that way.

It is interesting to note in the group of matched millinery sets of scarf and hat pictured here that the fashion includes tailored effects for street wear as well as the very dressy types. That very charming little hat and scarf heather and moorland tones which runs in so charmingly to springtime beauty. It's the fashion, too, to wear a bright scarf with the tweed coat which but accents the spring color scheme.

If you are wanting a fur collar on your coat of tweed you will find the mode in perfect accord with your wish. If you prefer, a separate fur neckpiece is considered quite as smart.

Unique tailoring features many a tweed coat, such as for instance, a wide plaited skirt section introduced across the back of the coat, with a stitched slot seam extending from the neckline between the shoulders half-way to the waistline at the back. Some straight-line models have a subtle flare shown to the right at the top is developed of plaid taffeta bordered with machine-stitched solid-colored silk. Of course, the color tone is vividly brilliant, designed, no doubt, to be worn with one of the very smart navy blue tailored suits or possibly with a navy rep coat-dress of swaggar style.

As the season advances grows the conviction that we are at the threshold of an era of wide-brimmed hats. Also dresser types are forecast. These will be accompanied with hand-some hand-worked scarfs and neckpieces, after the manner of the charming models here pictured.

Exotic coloring marks the richly embroidered scarf of georgette with hat of crocheted straw illustrated to the left.

Scarf and Hat Matched.

Introduced at the sides by means of plaits which declare themselves only as one steps back and forth.

Among novelty woolen coats, a conspicuous featuring of black and white effects gives zest to the mode. Black and white plaids are boldly patterned, the idea further developed with either white or black fur edgings with fur collars to match.

Various clever details contribute to the interest of the spring tweed coat. An attractive touch of color, for instance, is supplied with bindings of braid or pipings of cloth in a solid shade. The garment here pictured was thus colorfully detailed. Another new finish instead of piping or hemming is to button hole the edge with wool yarn.

It is accessories of this handsome men which will elaborate the coming summer costume.

It is an all-over conventional patterning which contributes a colorful splendor to the millinery set of scarf and hat centered in the picture. An almost solid darning stitch is used working out an effective multicolored motif.

The latest Parisian idea is for the hat to repeat the color of the frock with which it is worn.

The latest style note in millinery is the brimless hat, shaped to the head and expertly draped, preferably of colorful gros grain ribbon.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE ORANG-UTAN

"Visitors, visitors," said Toto, the orang-utan to himself.

Shake Hands With Lucy.

Now, an orang-utan is of the monkey family, only he is bigger than the usual monkey.

"A very nice little girl is coming to see me," Toto said once more.

Sure enough! The keeper brought a little girl named Lucy over near Toto's cage.

"Well, what can you do today?" the keeper asked.

Toto put his arm out of the cage and patted the keeper as though to say:

"I'll do some tricks. Never fear." The keeper opened Toto's cage and Toto jumped out. The keeper took him in his arms, and he was a pretty big animal, too.

Toto put his arms around the keeper's neck, and when the keeper said: "Shake hands with Lucy," he did so most politely.

Then the keeper put Toto back in his cage, leaving the door open, and he took a big piece of rope and tied knot after knot in it.

"Now, Toto, show Lucy and all the other visitors at the zoo what sort of an orang-utan you are."

"Show them your best trick."

Then Toto sat down on the floor of his big cage and began to untie the knots. He did every single one of them, too, and some of them were mighty hard.

Everyone looked at Toto and said to themselves and to each other:

"We could not do that."

When Toto was all through and had untied every one of the knots, he clapped his hands, as though to give himself some praise and applause, and then he grinned so no one would think he was conceited.

For he was not conceited at all, and he wouldn't want any one to think he was.

He thought every creature should be able to do some tricks and that it was only natural he should, too.

Toto began to feel playful after this and found an orange, an apple, a pear and a banana, which in turn he threw to the keeper and Lucy, and they put each piece of fruit back again.

Toto thought that was a fine game and he kept playing it with the keeper and Lucy for quite a while.

Then he had a glorious hay fight with Lucy.

They threw some of the hay in Toto's cage back and forth and if Toto had been able to talk the talk of funny beings he would have said that hay fights were the greatest fun in the world, particularly when you had such a jolly person with whom to play as Lucy.

He admired Lucy very much. He liked to hear her laugh and hear her voice and he liked to hear her say:

"I'm just crazy about it."

He knew she wasn't really crazy about anything—that is he knew she wasn't in the least scrap, particle, bit, crazy in any possible way.

It was even crazy to think such a thought for a second, or even speak of the fact that Lucy most certainly wasn't crazy!

But he knew that when she said she was crazy about anything it meant she liked it tremendously, and he was delighted when the keeper asked if she liked the hay fight with Toto to hear her say:

"I'm just crazy about it."

Then he did fine tricks on his trapeze and gave a performance which was even better than his usual one, so the keeper was more than ever proud of him.

Riddle

White am I and soft as snow,
And in the land where most I grow
The faces that bend over me
Are just as black as they can be,
A one-eyed comrade, sharp and lean,
With me is very often seen;
At other times in guns I lurk
And help them with their warlike work.
Answer—Cotton, needle, gun, cotton.

Dog's Adopted Mother

Virginia was out walking when she came across a forlorn-looking dog. He cuddled in her arms when she picked him up and seemed to belong to no one. She took him home and decided to keep him.

"Where did you get that dog? To whom does he belong?" asked daddy. "To me. I'm his adopted mother," impressively informing Virginia.

Many Say Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps Keep Them Fit to Work

8,549,511 women would be a vast army. According to the 1920 Census of Manufactures, that is the number of women and girls employed in all trades in the United States.

Napoleon said, "An army travels on its stomach." This army of women travels on its general health.

Every working girl knows that time lost through illness seldom is paid for and seldom can be made up. Employers demand regularity. If she wants to keep her job or hopes for a better one, she must guard her health.

Atlanta, Ga.—"My system was weak and run-down, and I was tired. I was this way for five years or more. I read your advertisement in the papers and I decided to try your medicine, the Vegetable Compound, but I did not begin to take it regularly until after I was married. I got so much good from it that I feel fine and have gained in weight. I work in a broom shop, but my work is not so hard on me now, and I keep my own house, and work my garden, too. I am telling all my friends of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how it has helped me."—Mrs. W. M. BAILEY, R. F. D. No. 5, Box 27, Atlanta, Georgia.

Missouri Woman Helped

Parkville, Mo.—"I am proud to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was so ill that I could not lie down at night. Then I got my husband to go to the store and buy me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I was up and around before the first bottle was gone, although I only weighed about ninety pounds. I took six or eight bottles and was able to do all my housework, washing and ironing, take care of my five boys, and tend to my chickens and garden, where before I had to hire my washing and part of my housework."—Mrs. ANNA COLE, R. R. 2, Parkville, Missouri.

"So you're buying a house?"

Let Tanlac restore your health

If your body is all fagged-out and run down, if you are losing weight steadily, lack appetite, have no strength or energy—why not let Tanlac help you back to health and strength?

So many millions have been benefited by the Tanlac treatment, so many thousands have written to testify to that effect that it's sheer folly not to make the test.

Tanlac, you know, is a great natural tonic and builder, a compound, after the famous Tanlac formula, of roots, barks and herbs. It purges the blood stream, revitalizes the digestive organs and enables the sickly body to regain its vanished weight.

You don't need to wait long to get results. Tanlac goes right to the seat of trouble. In a day or so you note a vast difference in your condition. You have more appetite, sleep better at night and the color begins to creep back into your washed-out cheeks.

Don't put off taking Tanlac another precious day. Step into the nearest drug store and get a bottle of this world-famed tonic. That's the first important step back to health and vigor. Every day's delay means unnecessary suffering, for Tanlac starts to clear out and tone up the system right away. And by acting promptly you will avoid further loss of energy and weight due to your present run down condition. Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation.

Prosperity Of Point Loma

"The whole peninsula of Point Loma—of which the International Theosophical Headquarters occupy only the central but most commanding part—will soon be covered with beautiful residences, which are being erected continuously. New subdivisions are announced almost every week.

"As a result of this, the value of the Headquarters property has increased enormously. Property purchased by Katherine Tingley nearly thirty years ago at $100 per acre is now valued at over $5000 per acre. So, even in a material way, people are beginning to recognize the leader's foresight in choosing this wonderful spot as the International Theosophical Headquarters, at a time when it was just a barren promontory, covered with sage-brush and chaparral, and inhabited by rattlesnakes and jack-rabbits! (These have disappeared with the advance of civilization!)

"The Headquarters estate extends for about one and one-half miles along the ocean front, and averages half a mile in width. It is bounded on the south by the U. S. government military reservation, on the east by the main public boulevard, and on the north by private property, which is being made into a highly restricted district.

"The Isis theatre in San Diego, which the leader purchased in 1902, and which was for many years used for our public services there, is still owned by Katherine Tingley, though it has been leased for dramatic presentations, as our public meetings are now conducted in the Temple of Peace. This theatre interiorly is one of the most beautiful on the Pacific coast. Owing to the phenomenal growth of the city of San Diego and its greatly enlarged population, the Isis theatre, situated in the very heart of the business section of the city, has increased enormously in value."
